

SCS WEDNESDAY WIRE | March 16, 2022

A midweek update from the SCS Dean's Office

I have only a few notes to share today since Spring Break was last week.

SCS NEWS

— Inside the Smart Sensing for Humans \(SMASH\) Lab, researchers use data collected from one type of sensor to train another. Their work, called IMU2Doppler, has shown that data collected from inertial measurement unit (IMU) sensors in smartwatches can quickly train a millimeter wave doppler to recognize human movements and behaviors.

ATTENTION: SCS UNDERGRADUATES

— Tuesday, March 22, 5 to 6:30 p.m. – If you'd like to learn more about the Artificial Intelligence major, minor or additional major, attend an information session (in person or via Zoom) with Reid Simmons, program director and Kaleigh Mitchell, program administrator. Be sure to register if you plan to attend.

ATTENTION: SCS FACULTY & STAFF

— SCS Founders Day is coming up (with an in-person option for the first time since 2019) on April 5 starting at 4 p.m. Founders Day is our school's once-a-year opportunity to catch up on what's new in SCS. As always, the stars will be the recipients of the annual SCS Awards, so nominate before March 29! The one-hour program will include an introduction to new faculty along with recognition awards for faculty and staff.

Until next week,

---- Martial
